Port Snap Shots

by Don McCarty

Manager McCredie of the Portland team thinks that Harry Krause, former Athletic pitcher, is some pumpkins as a twirler. He has the south-paw heading the pitching staff and will use him as a pinch hitter when he isn't otherwise engaged.

The string has been taken from the liver punch, the terror from the straight right to the jaw. A new Jersey High school professor has invented boxing armor similar to the paraphernalia worn by a baseball catcher. Shadow boxing would probably appeal to him as an exhilarating form of personal combat.

To make the first transcontinental bicycle race in years even more treacherous than it normally would be in these days of motor vehicles, a couple of New York boys are going to start on it without a cent in their pockets. They will sell pictures of themselves for a living along the way.

An enthusiastic press agent has it that the Cleveland Naps are showing all the good points of the systems successful under Jennings, Mack and McGraw. At any rate, the Naps should end the season with an average of 1.800, allowing at least $600 to each of the former pennant winners of the managers thus flattered.

Johnny Evers doesn't seem to be having the troubles a good many wise ones thought he was going to meet in managing the Chicago Cubs. He has largely rebuilt the team, and yet has it fighting hard for leading honors. Prophesied dissensions have failed to materialize. Managers worked up the story that Hal Chase would be traded by the New York Yankees to the Boston Red Sox. Manager Frank Chance says he might consider the trade if Boston would give him Tris Speaker and Joe Wood in return. Such a trade is as likely as that Ty Cobb would have held out all season.

Champion Johnny Kilbane's friends are there with the usual alibi. They say he didn't want to do more than win on points in his twenty-round fight with Johnny Dundee that went a draw. Be that as it may, all sorts of rumors are coming after the disgraced champion, and even Charley White of Chicago, whom Kilbane trimmed soundly a couple of years ago, crows loudly in an attempt to attract the attention of the little Irishman.

The Cincinnati Reds are having their usual troubles. Just when Garry Herrmann thought that he had ended his ten-year search for a shortstop to fill the shoes of Joe Corcoran and congratulate himself upon the performance of Joe Tinker in that position, Joe, being manager, has decided that he will play third base also a week apiece in the infield. Now Garry will have to go gunning again.

Connie Mack certainly does grab the kids for the Philadelphia Athletics. It is said that he has no scouts, and needs none, having all the infant rhinos in the country on his list. A youth named McGraw, who pitched for a Pueblo (Colo.) team and struck out twenty has just fessed to being consigned to the Athletics when Connie wants him.

How the public does gobble bear stories. Not long ago the tale came out of Pittsburgh that Hans Wagner, great Pirate shortstop, would be out of the game half the season and perhaps for all time. Now it is related that an X-ray examination shows only a bad bruise, and that Honus will be back in the game in two weeks.

JANESVILLE HIGHS WIN FIRST VICTORY

High School Defeats Beloit in Initial Game by 6 to 4 Score After Hard Fought Battle.

Better fielding and support enabled the Janesville high school baseball team to start their season with a victory against their rivals, Beloit high school, in Saturday's contest at the Driving Park by a score of 6 to 4. Connell, white pitching good ball for the locals, was hit often and hard and is capable of pitching a more effective game than any other pitcher in the area. He played errorless ball, assisting Connell out of several tight pinches and playing a principal part in the victory.

Beloit high school played excellent baseball in spots and outbatted the locals by one hit, but were unable to hit the twisters of the Janesville pitcher when his meant runs. Three of their scores were made on misplays and errors by the local fielders. Their pitcher, Martin, had no miseries for the Janesville batters, his delivery being too easy and slow, causing the batters to ground out to the infield. The visitors' infield was far inferior to that of Janesville, bungling on several plays that played a prominent part in the score. The Line City's left fielder Olson, saved his team from a worse defeat by sneaking several long drives that look good for doubles and triples.

This is the first time that the Janesville high school has organized a baseball team and they have every prospect of developing into a whirlwind of players. Connell and Edler worked well as the battery and with more practice together should improve at least fifty per cent. Edler played the receiving end of the ball for the first time and performed in a most satisfactory manner. His wing to second proved effective and only a few of the opposing players ventured to piffle the keystone sack. One player tried to steal third and was caught off the bag by ten feet by Captain Harry Ryan. The most promising part of the team is the infield where they played errorless ball and pulled off plays in big league style. J. Ryan at short and J. Stewart at second, made a total of nine assists without a slip and several of them were sensational pickups which stonewalled the visitors in the midst of a threatening rally. The outfield of the Janesville team needs strengthening as their errors proved costly and should have been easy outs.

On the score of the game Beloit was retired in a one-two-three. Captain Ryan was first at bat for the Janesville team and on the third ball pitched batted out a triple. On his way around the bases he failed to touch second and was caught out by Timmie Koch. Finding the opposing pitcher's delivery to be easy J. Stewart hit for a single and was sacrificed to second by Edler and scored on Ryan's scorching double. Kuhlrow scored Ryan on a hit through Phillips and was out on the next play.

BUTTERS REPORTS AT MADISON TODAY

Local Ball Player Will Probably Land on Pitching Staff of Capitol City Team.

Thomas Butters, who was given a try-out by the Madison nine of the Wisconsin-Illinois league this spring, was called to Madison today to report to Manager Harry Bay. Butters made a good showing during the training season and the leader of the Senators evidently realizes that the local lad has the goods. Butters' trouble in practice was that he had too much speed and not enough control. With a little more practice he promises to show real class in the first state league.

BELOIT NORTH ENDS DEFEAT CARDINALS

Janesville Nine Plays Fast Game But Are Unable to Solve Voight's Curves.

Star pitching by Voight of Beloit, caused the defeat of the Janesville Cardinals in their first contest against the Beloit north ends yesterday afternoon at Beloit. The local team lost out on the seventh inning by a two to one score when the north end batters hammered out a victory aided by errors on the part of the Janesville infielders.

Burger was on the mound for the Cardinals and with good support should have won the game as they only got four hits off his delivery. Voight, pitcher for the Beloit team only allowed three hits and had plenty of stuff on the ball. Janesville's scoring was done in the early stages of the game when "Skelly" Hill knocked a triple with a man on base. T. Connell played the most spectacular game fielding seven assists and one put out with an error besides making a long hit.

Beloit made all their scores in the "lucky" seventh when they pushed four runs across the plate by heavy hitting and errors. The north end have strengthened their team to a great extent and have one of the best nines in Beloit. Next Sunday the Cardinals are to cross bats with the Van Patten Colts of the Line City.

Janesville's lineup—Wilson, c.; Berker, p.; Hill, ss.; Porter, 1b.; Sullivan, 2b.; T. Connell, 3b.; Berger, F. Croanin, Dalton and Koch, fielders.

WHITE SOX DEFEAT HARMONY 3 TO 2

White Sox Baseball Team Continues Victories, Winning From Harmony Nine in Last Two Innings.

Despite a crippled lineup the Janesville White Sox played their usual brilliant fielding game and won from the Harmony nine in Sunday's contest at the Driving Park by the score of 3 to 2. The Harmony nine lead up to the seventh inning and the outcome of the game looked doubtful as their twirler, Brummond was pitching a tight ball and kept the White Sox's hits widely scattered.

Harmony scored in the second after they had hit six offerings of Britt and errored the bases on errors. With two scores as a lead the game progressed evenly until the seventh when the White Sox nosed out a victory by clever base running and hard hitting. The Sox infielders played perfect ball the last innings and shut the opposing batters out in one, two, three order. Lamphere was the heavy hitter for the local team, slugging out three hits out of four times at bat. While Britt pitched a battery game putting on plenty of speed and curves when men were on bases the opposing pitcher, displayed far better form causing nine of the Sox batters to whiff, while Britt struck out seven. Errors were frequent on both sides and played a prominent part in the score.

White Sox—Britt, p.; Harper, c.; Lamphere, ss.; McGinley, 1b.; M. Ryan, 2b.; McKelvey, 3b.; O'Brien, 1b.; McKelvey, c. and Fineran, c.

Harmony—Johnson, c.; E. Brummond, p.; Keim, 1b.; Berora, 2b.; Muligan, ss.; Butters, 3b.; Knobs, rf.; F. Brummond, lf.; Jones, c.

Playing a preliminary game to the White Sox-Harmony game the Condon's Terriers defeated the Porter's Colts, by the score of 6 to 5 after a hard fought contest. Ryan and McKelvey pitched a battery game, losing while Byrne and McKelvey were the battery for the winners. Errors and bonehead plays marred the game in spite of the brilliant play by both twirlers.

GRANDALL'S PITCHING DEFEATS ST. JOHN'S

Wonderful Record by Milton's Pitcher Who Fane 23 Men Defeats St. John's—Play Tie Game With Carroll.

Milton, Wis., May 5.—Milton college won easily from the strong St. John's team last Thursday, by the score of 5 to 1. The soldiers were heavy hitters but Milton's pitcher twirler Grandall was too much for them and struck out 23 of their number. In the game on Friday the Miltonians were very unfortunate. Before the game, during practice, pitcher Grandall was hit by a ball which closed one of his eyes so that he was unable to bat. Catcher Sorenson also had the nail knocked off his throwing hand and as a result of these accidents the Milton team went into the game badly crippled. Despite this the team played fine ball, outplaying the Carroll team by every department. Grandall, Milton's heaviest hitter, being unable to bat because of the misfortune to his eye, was no doubt the cause of the tie score of 5 to 5. White of Milton played a fine game, getting to first every time at bat. Forcing is the lineup in the St. John's game.

The Janesville Gazette

New Bldg., 200-204 E. Milwaukee St.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT JANESVILLE, WIS., AS SECOND CLASS MAIL MATTER.

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BUSINESS OFFICE OPEN SATURDAY EVENING.

WHAT CAN BE ACCOMPLISHED?

Some men who ought to be in the Twenty-five Thousand club, but are still outside of it, say that they would join if they could see how they could get anything out of it. No man can get anything out of the club unless he first puts something into it. It is like any other good organization or society, which is worth joining, we must expect to put as much into it as we expect to get out of it. No honest man expects to get much out of his business unless he puts considerable into it, not only in money but also in labor, intelligence and confidence.

The merchant who succeeds not only has good wares to sell, but is also always seeking to please his customers. Now Janesville is like the merchant, it is in the market of seeking to sell advantageous sights to its customers looking for a good location, and the difference between its success and its failure is often a very small thing. Just as is the difference between success and failure of the merchant, so is the difference between pleasing one's customers and failing to please them.

The enthusiasm, push, energy and united action of a large body of Janesville citizens can do more to bring up the town than ten times their number, but simply to get something to happen or conclude that other towns are better situated than we and able to accomplish things that we can not accomplish.

Every member of this club and every person desirous of becoming a member should not allow anything to interfere with their attendance at the mass meeting at the opera house this evening. Make it a point to come and participate in the making of a directorate. Let us remember that we get nine men as directors who will be satisfactory to everybody. But it must be the desire of all to choose nine representative men if possible representing nine different classes of the people of our city. The membership of this club should not be confined to those who have reached thirty or forty years of age, but should include all at least twenty-one years of age, and there does not seem any good reason why there should be any age limitation unless it be placed as low as eighteen years. The club not only needs vigor and enthusiasm for the present, but it should enlist in its ranks all those young enough to retain their confidence and hopefulness for the future, even if the club had lost its novelty and become an old story.

There is no need for this club if it simply seeks to accomplish things along the same lines as other clubs have worked. And therefore, must take advantage of its numbers as its most potent force for accomplishing good for the community, and this can not be done unless the zest and interest of club affairs are maintained and publicity is given to whatever it undertakes to do. It can throw the spotlight on whatever happens in Janesville, and it is of public welfare or adversely tending to improve it. Whatever is done in a corner is sure to be done by the public with suspicion and on the other hand whatever is done by this club and endorsed by the club as a whole would bear the marks of public approval.

THE RECALL.

As announced on Saturday, a compromise has been effected between the element desirous of recalling the present city officials and Mayor Fathers and his two associates, whereby the actions against Cummings and Williams are to be dropped and the fight centered on the case of Mayor Fathers, who has agreed to accept service of the recall petition and call a special election to be held during the coming summer. There has always been considerable question as to why the recall petitions were filed in the first place and the present action really shows the real reasons for the original action. The recall election will be called as per schedule and the matter threshed out at the polls.

This really is the best method of deciding the question. Let the people decide, not drag it through a long drawn-out court action. It is agreed that this election will settle the matter for good and all and it is high time that the petty bickering between the recallists and the anti-recallists cease for the general good of the city. Mayor Fathers will be a candidate to succeed himself and he will probably be opposed by John C. Nicholas, who has been the leader of the recall element since its inception. It promises to be a most interesting fight with little mercy shown on either side. When the alignment comes it will be time to thoroughly discuss the issues at stake. In the meantime the plain discussion of the proposition will doubtless continue in many circles, so that by the time the election is called all the reasons pro and con will be known and understood.

It is a fine thing to oil the streets and lay the dust, also work in the same good cause of driving away the flies, who are frightened of oil, as the devil is of holy water, but why not go farther and take some of the bumps out of the brick pavement on Milwaukee and Main streets? They closely resemble camels' back in many places and it is a shame that they are permitted to remain as they are. The city is paying two thousand dollars a year for a man supposed to be an expert in street work and yet these conditions exist.

The attorney general holds that there is nothing in the law that prohibits the rebuilding of the burned structures on the Milwaukee street bridge. This is just the preliminary step on the part of the business men who are opposed to the plan of rebuilding and an interesting outcome may be looked for.

Janesville is to have a chautauqua this summer and some five hundred season tickets are to be sold to do.

fray the expenses. These tickets are well worth the dollar and a half they cost and should find ready purchasers.

A story comes from down east of a catfish that swallowed a pup. There is hope, evidently, that the elephant and the bull moose will yet get together on terms of the closest intimacy.

The rains of Saturday, Sunday and today, have been worth thousands of dollars to the farmers throughout the city and to property-owners in the cities who pride themselves on their lawns and gardens.

Now that we are to have a recall election after all, why not forget all differences and get busy and boost Janesville. Let everyone join the Twenty-five Thousand club, and be a booster.

Mrs. Belmont hints that she intends to import militant suffragism from England. Somebody ought to call the attention of Mr. Underwood and the other tariff-makers to the fact.

Before it is too late the president should take advantage of his position to make it expedient for Congressmen Hobson to cancel his California lecture dates.

If the American public has not lost its sense of humor, the autobiographies of the latest congressional director ought to make it one of the six best sellers.

While the Washington team is at home, President Wilson, when he wants to see congressmen, will probably have to go to the bill park instead of the capitol.

The hotel clerks are forming a union. No man is eligible unless he can say that there isn't another $3.00 room left in the house, with an air of conscious rectitude.

That boosters' meeting tonight should mark the beginning of a great big work of boosting Janesville, and will doubtless be well attended.

The French scientist who makes the declaration that man is descended from a pig, probably bases it on the fact that eventually everybody croaks.

Joseph H. Chouteau would have the newspapers stop printing accounts of crimes. Why not make the criminals stop committing crimes?

Castor oil has been placed on the free list. But it can't be helped, as the small boy has no vote.

California, evidently, is determined to avoid having a yellow streak, if possible.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE OLD SPRING.

Do you remember it? The surroundings may vary somewhat in each man's case, but there is generally an old spring under the hill just as there are a swimming hole and a particular tree and a cave and all the things that are so precious to a boy.

And when the boy grows big these things stay with him even though he goes to the other side of the earth.

The particular spring of which I am talking was down a hill behind the house. It was an old house, with holly hocks and roses growing around, locust trees and cedars in the front yard and a wealth of flowers.

But the boy that did my boyish navigating did not lead me so much among the flowers in front as they did down the willing path back of the house to the old spring under the hill. There I did my dreaming.

I have never found water quite so cold and sweet as flowed from that spring.

A little girl ran from it over the pebbles and down the hill through the copse and the lower woods, away and away to the creek and thence to the river.

To me this was a river of dreams. I did not see it till years afterward. And I must make a confession, however fancifully it may sound. That river came fully up to my expectations. The excitement of seeing it was equal to the boyish vision.

But this, as I said, was years later. Once in the early days my bare feet toddled far down the little hill, trying to follow it to the creek and river.

There came nearly being a lost boy that day. Had it not been dinner time there might have been a different story. But when I got to the foot of a big, big hill on a neighbor's farm the gnawings of hunger got the better of curiosity, and I streaked it back at the clang of the dinner bell. The appetite for grub was stronger than the appetite for adventure.

The old spring was surrounded by big trees. I especially remember a sycamore and an oak.

I think the sun never shone so alluringly on green leaves as it did on the broad leaves of that sycamore. The glister somehow colored my dreams.

Nor did a rill ever sing more sweetly than did the little one meandering from the old spring. I hear it yet. Somewhere, away down in my consciousness I think I have heard it all ways.

REPORT-MOMENT

Don't do it! One poor deluded mortal tried to figure out the scheme.

The old scheme of existence and it was his one pet dream.

That some day he would solve it and that he would rise to fame.

And that the countless millions would be tried to figure, how some folks could always get along.

And never do a stroke of work and never get it wrong.

How they could wear the finest clothes and eat the finest fare.

Without a cent of income of which neighbors were aware.

He couldn't do it, system out. He scribbled with might and main.

But had to give it up at last, his efforts were in vain.

He tried to figure how it was that crooks seemed to succeed so often.

While honest folks failed frequently and were sometimes in need.

He figured on for many years, his fat was sad to tell.

They say that he's still figuring, but in a padded cell.

There Anne says when he sent his daughter to a finishing school it was his finish and not his daughter's.

Ansel Hanks has begun taking lessons on the slide trombone and practice at home and all the neighbors have begun getting phonographs in self-defense.

Since Lem Tubbs held the office of mayor in our public in a village and got a taste of politics he ain't fit for work of any kind.

I see that Alfred Vanderbilt has got a suit of clothes for every day in the year. So have I and it is the same one.

They say that there is nothing impossible in this world, but I would like to know how in tarnation it is possible to get out of payin' a gas bill.

Ansel Bird has been working all winter making an automobile for himself and if he didn't succeed in putting a mortgage on his remaining forty acres he may be able to buy enough gasoline to run it for a week or two.

Rev. Edmund says he hopes some day to sit his church choir in such a frame of mind that at least two members of it will speak to each other.

He does hope that his many years in the ministry will not be in vain.

Lem Higgins says he hopes to live long enough to get the tariff straightened out in his own mind, but he must expect to be a Methuselah's record by several years.

The mud puddle which has stood in Main street in front of the post-office for several years will be moved onto a back street this spring. It will be soaked up in sponges and squeezed out when a proper site for it is found. Let the improvements go on.

Every time the price of gasoline goes up, Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Hanks put another mortgage on their forty to keep the car going.

Dad.

Dad is an old-fashioned sport. Has no manners of the court. Likes to eat in his shirt-sleeves. Every meal, and he believes in it.

He should say just what he thinks. Spite of mother's nudge and winks. He is not well versed in Greek. Plain old Yankee does he speak.

They have not been published yet. You can always hear him chew. Drinks out of his sasser, too. And he doesn't mind a bit.

When you call him down for it. Takes old-fashioned remedy. For what ails him. Says that he can't see much in this "new thought." Though of course he ought. He's not very long on style. And he wears no fine silk tie.

Interest in art to him. Is naught but a silly whim. He's more taken up with cooks. Than with music or with books. Poetry is not in his line.

But, I'll tell you friends of mine. When I'm lookin' for a Y. Dad looks mighty good to me.

Dinner Stories

Mrs. Winfall, a society woman, always allowed the housekeeper to hire her servants.

One morning, however, the mistress wished to interview the cook.

"What is your name?" inquired the lady.

"Mrs. McCarty," replied the cook.

"Do you expect to be called Mrs. McCarty?"

"Oh, no ma'am, not if you have an alarm clock."

She was a lady visitor to the prison, kindly and well meaning, and as she chattered with a burglar who had been sentenced to six months' imprisonment, she thought she detected signs of reform in him.

"And now," she said, "have you any plans for the future, on the expiration of your sentence?"

"Oh, yes, ma'am," he said, hopefully. "I've got the plans of two banks and a postoffice."

A small but very black negro was standing very erect at one side of the door of a house where a colored man had just died. The services were about to begin, when the negro clergyman appeared at the door and said to the little fellow:

"The services are about to begin. Aren't you coming inside?"

"I would if I could," said the small boy, "but you see I'm de crepe."

Hiram Jones, says Lippincott's Magazine, had just returned from a tour of Europe. "I suppose," said a friend, "that when you were in England you did as the English do, and dropped your H's?"

"No," modestly responded the returned traveler, "I didn't. I did as the Americans do. I dropped my W's and X's."

Perils of Cookery.

"Leezie, wumman," the old Highlander complained to his wife at breakfast, "these eggs are mighty hard boiled again."

"Nae wonder, John, dear," replied his wife, triumphantly, "when the lassie boiled them by the kitchen clock, and forgot it was five minutes slow."

TONIGHT'S GATHERING MOST IMPORTANT TO MEMBERS OF CLUB

TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND CLUB TO BE FORMALLY LAUNCHED THIS EVENING.

WILL NAME DIRECTORS

Members of the Organization Will Nominate and Elect Their Board of Directors at Gathering.

Tonight's meeting of the Twenty-Five Thousand Club at the Myers theatre promises to be a most important gathering. Not only will the board of directors be nominated and elected by the active members of the club, but important matters as to procedure will also be discussed. The Moose band will furnish musical inspiration and Chairman Frank Crook will preside. There will be several addresses, music by quartettes and the election of the directors. The public is invited to attend the meeting but only members wearing their buttons will be permitted to vote.

The nominations will be made by the members from the floor of the house. All who desire to discuss matters pertinent to the new club will have an opportunity to state their views. It is to be a meeting of the people, for the people, and by the people.

The gathering will come to order at 8 o'clock with a concert by the Moose band, weather permitting.

TANK IS EXPLODED; BARN SET ON FIRE

Supposed to Have Been Caused By Lighted Lantern Standing Near Man Arrested

With a report that was heard over a large part of the city a gasoline tank standing against a barn on West Bluff street, just outside the Northwestern depot, exploded about five o'clock last evening, setting fire to the building. No persons were injured. An alarm was sent in from box 15, corner of Wall and Academy streets, and the department put out the blaze with chemical extinguishers. The damage will not exceed fifteen to twenty dollars.

Considerable mystery surrounds the origin of the fire, but it is believed that minutes after the tank was found standing against the barn, it was set on fire by a boy giving the name of Walter Swager, to fill a lighted lantern with gasoline, mistaking it for kerosene. After the explosion took place the lighted tank and gasoline found standing against the barn, it was set on fire by a boy giving the name of Walter Swager, to fill a lighted lantern with gasoline, mistaking it for kerosene. ## THREE BLIND BOYS WANDER TO DELAVAN; WERE FOUND TODAY

Ran Away From State Institute For the Blind and Travel Twenty-Two Miles Before Discovered

Three eleven-year-old blind boys, Alton, Moon, Edwin Andrews and Lester, students at the state institute for the blind, disappeared from the institution Sunday morning and after hours of search and worry on the part of Superintendent J. M. Hooper, the boys were located this morning at Delavan. Superintendent Hooper left for that city on the morning train and will bring the three back to the school this morning. The boys were not supposed to leave the grounds without permission and were seen about church time Sunday going towards the city by one of the school attendants. Thinking they had permission to leave the grounds, they had not stopped. The Moon boy and the Perless boy can see, partially but the Andrews boy is entirely blind. Search was made of the city and river bank and inquiries were made of the country. It was learned this morning that the Moon boy's mother lived in Delavan, where she was employed and a telephone message to the police quickly located the missing boys. The boys were taken to the police station and their destination on foot, sleeping over night in a barn. They had a little money and were out for a good time.

DIVER GUNDERSON SALVAGES TWO SAFES

Safes Belonging to L. D. Barker and Amos Rehberg Rescued From River Bottom

Aided by the receding of the water in the river, diver Gunderson and his helpers were able to locate the safes belonging to L. D. Barker and Amos Rehberg which sank to the river bottom Sunday morning. The safes were rescued from the river bottom by the diver Gunderson and his helpers. The safes were rescued from the river bottom by the diver Gunderson and his helpers. The safes were rescued from the river bottom by the diver Gunderson and his helpers.

The water has receded at least four feet and the current is considerably less than two weeks ago, making the work of the divers easier.

In spite of this, Mr. Gunderson worked from a pipe extended from the barge to the bottom of the river which prevented the under currents from sweeping him down the stream.

After locating the safes yesterday morning, Gunderson remained beneath the water for a period of two hours in the morning. On moving the barge further down the river, the safe of Mr. Barker was discovered and was firmly embedded in the debris in the bridge, late yesterday afternoon, and its contents were hardly damaged.

As the Rehberg safe was estimated to contain the more valuable contents, the crew worked this morning and the location of the safe was found to be about twenty feet further down the river than was anticipated.

The real trip struck the safe in its downward down by the current for a short distance. After placing the chains around the safe the matter of raising it to the bridge was comparatively easy.

After being an opening it was discovered that the safes were only slightly water soaked but were easily readable. A small amount of money was also found in a harmless condition. The safes had been in the water for over a month and in good condition of the contents is little short of remarkable.

These were the only strong boxes that remained in the river from the fire and the work of Mr. Gunderson and his helpers is highly commendable as his effort to salvage the safes has been untiring and worked in many unfavorable conditions in order to save the business men's property.

Large amounts of dollars in valuable papers and receipts were found in the safes that have been raised three feet from the bottom of the river.

The safe belonging to Carpenter and Carpenter was the largest of the two. It was found in the debris in the bridge, late yesterday afternoon, and its contents were hardly damaged.

BELOIT NEWS LIBEL SUIT IS SETTLED; INGALLS GETS $500

Stipulation Filed in Circuit Court This Afternoon and Judge Grimm Issues Dismissal Order

According to the stipulation filed in the circuit court this afternoon, the libel suit brought by Wallace Ingalls of Racine against D. B. Worthington, editor of the Beloit News-Publishing Company, has been settled for the sum of $500. The stipulation is signed by Wallace Ingalls and Olin Butler and Curkeet, attorneys for the defendant. The suit was taken as a result of the banquet which was held by the society on Friday evening last, at the Caledonian rooms without the permission of the high school faculty and without the presence of a faculty critic or chaplain. In addition to this the student's enjoyed a dance following the banquet which is against the rules of the school.

Some indignation was expressed among the members who believed that the action was more drastic than the case warranted. They were given no opportunity for redress, however, and the society will hold no further meeting until called together by Superintendent Buell.

The forum has a membership of twenty-five boys and has enjoyed an existence of about eight years, during which the members have been prominent in debate and public speaking. By special permission the club held meetings this year without the presence of a faculty critic.

BUELL GIVES ORDER TO DISBAND FORUM, PENALTY OF FROLIC

Boys' Literary Society of High School Held Banquet and Dance Without Faculty Permission

Principal H. C. Buell ordered the Forum Literary society of the high school to adjourn sine die this morning at a special meeting which he called for that purpose, immediately after the opening of school.

Mr. Buell's action was taken as a result of the banquet which was held by the society on Friday evening last, at the Caledonian rooms without the permission of the high school faculty and without the presence of a faculty critic or chaplain. In addition to this the student's enjoyed a dance following the banquet which is against the rules of the school.

Some indignation was expressed among the members who believed that the action was more drastic than the case warranted. They were given no opportunity for redress, however, and the society will hold no further meeting until called together by Superintendent Buell.

The forum has a membership of twenty-five boys and has enjoyed an existence of about eight years, during which the members have been prominent in debate and public speaking. By special permission the club held meetings this year without the presence of a faculty critic.

Trespassing.

A street car and an automobile had had an altercation which ended with the latter, in a more or less battered condition, lodged on the fender of the former. A little boy and his mother happened along just as it was over, and when the youngster saw them he cried out in glee: "Oh, look, there's an auto standing on that street car's mustache!"

"Cattails" Made of Use.

A big industry has grown up in some localities in the "cattails" that cover the swamps. These flags are used not only for chair bottoms, but for calking the joints of barrels and for the manufacture of a strong, flexible and waterproof paper for lining boxes and barrels. Big paper mills are growing up on the areas which have been waste lands until the last few years.

Lucky in Love.

The optimist had lost heavily. "Oh, well!" he remarked, as he rose from the gaming table, "unlucky at cards, lucky at love." "Is that true in your case?" sneered the pessimist. "Sure," replied the optimist. "At any rate, I have never been married."—Philadelphia Record.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

Two Housekeepers.

BOTH are capable women and as far as mentality goes, they seem on a par. But the one accomplishes, and the other doesn't.

Both have the same sized families—a husband, two children and themselves. Both do their own housework. And as has been said as far as capability goes, one is the equal of the other. But what a difference in results.

Both on a certain day baked some apples, and both took a dish of these apples to a neighbor. And though it is not proper to look a gift horse in the face, the neighbor inspected these apples and thereupon meditated a bit on the two housekeepers.

For in the one instance, the apples were tender, deliciously flavored with spices, glazed until in their shining beauty they were a feast to the eye as well as to the palate, and they sat on a throne of clear tempting jelly.

The other's apples were tough, soggy, without spice or glaze—so unappetizing looking mess, which though it might answer the purpose of food, did not tempt one to eat.

The neighbor looked at the apples and thought of the two homes, and in each dish of apples she saw reflected the spirit that governed the baking of the apples.

The one home was spick and span, not richly furnished but everything about it artistic and comfortable and restful to eye and body. The food provided was nourishing and palatable, the husband and children were pictures of health and content. The kitchen was an orderly, up-to-date workshop, with all the latest contrivances for doing work expeditiously and economically—economically in the sense of saving time and labor, as well as money.

The other home was untidy, unattractive, in disorder from one end to the other. The food provided was unpalatable, poorly cooked. This was proven by the anemic, blood impoverished look of the children and the fretful irritation of the husband. The housekeeping, such of it as was done, was performed in an indifferent, inefficient way. There was little joy in living in that home. There was abundant joy in living in the other home.

What made the difference? Neither woman by her own confession liked housekeeping. But both assumed it willingly—since no compulsion had been brought on either, to get married.

But having assumed it, the one recognized her responsibilities and shouldered them; the other didn't.

The one said, "Since I have willingly taken this work upon myself, I will give my husband and children what is their right—a comfortable home and nourishing food." And she went to work and mastered the business of housekeeping. She studied the science of cooking, the chemistry of food, and everything that pertained to good housekeeping. And her home and her husband and children showed the result.

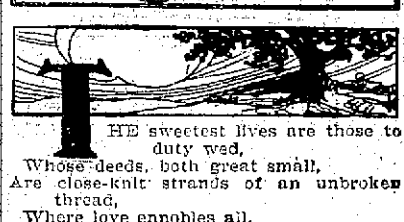

The other said, "I don't like housekeeping," and so she side-stepped every responsibility and task. If she didn't feel like cleaning up the house, she wouldn't do it. If she didn't want to cook, she wouldn't. She was self-indulgent and selfish. And her home and husband and children paid the penalty.

There was no lack of ability in either case. One could have kept house quite as well as the other. It was a lack in the woman herself; one unselfishly shouldered her responsibilities, the other selfishly side-stepped them.

And the two dishes of baked apples told the tale.

The Kitchen Cabinet

THE KITCHEN GARDEN.

Of course, people who live in the country, or in small towns, where they have a generous space for a garden, will do many more things for their families thereby than they who have but a few square feet for the garden. Even people who live in closely settled cities, where there is nothing but an ash barrel or garbage can for a background, have made the barrel blossom like the rose. Fill a barrel with well-rotted horse manure and plant some seeds of radish and cucumbers in it. If it has a warm, sunny place, you can grow your cucumbers on a rack, using care to wet the ground, not the plant, when watering; and soon you will be rewarded by a good crop of crisp and refreshing cucumbers.

If you have urns or tiles for plants in the grounds, too early for their rightful possessors, sow radish and lettuce seed in them. They will grow like weeds in the warm sun and be ready to vacate the place by the time you wish to put the plants out.

Three square feet for a lettuce bed will supply the family all summer with nice crisp salad. If one likes head lettuce, it needs more room, is worth more in time and trouble, but pays for all the time put into it.

A row or two of peas, which can be replanted two or three times, will keep one with green peas for the table from July until frost comes.

No garden is complete without a row of chard. It is one of the most satisfactory greens, is easily grown and springs up from the roots after cutting. The last out in the fall is as good as that grown in early spring.

A few beets, for greens and to serve chopped and seasoned with butter and vinegar, are liked by most people. A small row of carrots for boiled dinners and to serve with butter and lemon juice when cooked tender, is another good, wholesome vegetable we must not neglect.

For those who have room, an ideal arrangement is to have a clump of plants for early use, a bed of asparagus and a small strawberry bed that can furnish the dewy berry for breakfast.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE Lady-Who-Always-Knows-Something and Molly were having a conference on the one subject that is always interesting to women. Molly had been so long with the waist. She had looked in four shops without finding anything to satisfy her and the Lady was advising her to try W's.

The Wants-to-be-Cynic had been poking the fire and listening. Finally he broke out in comment. "If that isn't just like a woman. Been to four shops and going to come home with a new waist. What a man does is to go into a shop and buy the first suit the salesman shows him, no matter what it looks like. Sometimes it happens to look decently on him and sometimes it doesn't. Take that gray suit you hated so that you scarcely wore it. If you had ever looked around would you have bought it? Didn't you tell me it was the first thing the salesman showed you? Catch a woman being that foolish!"

"Funny how different men and women are," mused the Cynic, swinging gracefully into a general discussion. There's lots of little things like that which don't seem to have any particular connection with sex that there's as different about as can be."

"Yes," agreed the Lady-Who-Always-Knows-Something, "neer little things too. For instance, did you ever notice that all women want to have the window want to run them sky high?"

"Men never can stand hot things the way women can," put in the Author-Man's wife. "Why, my husband never will drink anything until it's just about lukewarm."

"Women never will take a chance the way men will," contributed the Man-Who-Thinks. "For instance, nine women out of ten would rather have their husband earn a steady income, even if it were small, than take a chance for bigger things. The normal man is just the other way around."

"Well, did you ever notice the way men always draw diagrams when they try to explain anything," said Molly. "That's something you never see a woman do. Ask any man how to get anywhere and he will draw a pencil and an envelope and has a diagram drawn in twenty seconds. Ask ten women the same question and you wouldn't get a single diagram."

"One difference I notice particularly," said the Man-Who-Thinks, "is how much more patient women have than men. How much less impatient. Woman endures, man cures. Men never have good the inconveniences of housework as women have. Give a man and a woman a daily task to do, and the man will do it more than once before he will be studying how to get rid of the inconvenience, while the woman will probably go on enduring until doomsday."

"Women certainly are queerer than men," said the Wants-to-be-Cynic. "Only one thing queerer," said Molly.

"What?" asked the Cynic.

"The Domestic Science Department," said Molly.

"Conducted by Mrs. Alice Gitchell Kirk," said the Cynic.

"Easy Menus for Sunday. If meals are to be arranged simply and easily for Sunday they must be well planned in advance to allow all necessary time for marketing and preparation."

YOU ARE LOOKING OLDER THAN WHEN I SAW YOU LAST

Have You Ever Had This Said of You Because of Grey Hairs

It is most embarrassing to have a friend remark that you are "looking older". Grey hairs are not becoming, people may tell you so, but they are saying themselves. "What a pity she is not old. And she used to have such beautiful hair."

There is one quick, absolutely sure, easy way of getting rid of grey or faded hair—simply use Hay's Hair Health.

Benefit by the experience of thousands of others, who are using Hay's Hair Health. It brings back the fine, glossy, brilliant color of your hair—restores the grey. SMITH DRUG CO., McCue & Buss, BAKER & SON, SHERER, BADGER DRUG CO., PEOPLE'S DRUG CO.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is it proper for a young lady to give her gentleman friend a birthday gift, and if so, can you give me a few suggestions of an inexpensive one? (2) I am a very quiet girl, that is, I do not have much to say to strangers that I meet. Lots of people think I am "stuck-up" and disagreeable. How can I overcome this? (3) Will those knitted bags be carried this summer? If so, is it too early now? (4) Can you give me an idea how much a manicurist would charge to manicure my nails?

A PLYMOUTH BEAUTY. (1) Give him something inexpensive. A man does not like to be put under obligations to a woman. An art box, a pencil holder, fountain pen, bill book, note book. (2) Try to be a little more interesting to others. Find out what they like to talk about and keep yourself generally informed so you can talk on various topics. Be jolly and sweet, too, and you'll have lots of friends. (3) Yes, you can carry it now. (4) From 25 cents to 50 cents.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a boy of thirteen years old. Please tell me what is good to thicken the hair? (2) What is good to get light complexion? (3) What is good for black heads? (4) Do you think it is wrong for me to go to the "nickelodeon" every night? (5) Do you think it is nice to talk with girls on the street? (6) What is good for a swollen chin? (7) What is good for a stiff neck? (8) I rub vasoline into the scalp. (9) Rub the face in buttermilk or diluted lemon juice. (10) Plenty of soap and water. (11) Don't you think you can find better things to read on some evenings? Get some good books to read, my boy, or take up a study that will help you to be a good citizen, or go to a gymnasium or visit with the right sort of boys and girls in their homes. The "nickelodeon" won't hurt you once in a while, but too much of it isn't good for anybody. (12) Not if you are not acquainted with them. (13) Hot water. (14) Witch hazel.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Am writing to you in regard to a peculiar mark on my face and hands. In winter these spots cannot be seen, but as soon as spring comes and my skin starts to tan these spots remain white and do not tan. Could you give me a remedy for them or tell me what they are. They look bad and I wish to get rid of them. I have seen only one other person have them. The doctors do not know what it is other than a change in the skin. Please inform me what it is and give me a remedy, if possible. H. W. H.

I am very sorry I cannot help you. Possibly the spots are scars from chicken pox or pimples. In that case they will disappear in time, helped by daily massage with a good skin food.

Dear Mrs. Thompson, I am a boy of fourteen and I go with a girl the same age. We are in love. She is it right for me to take her to shows and go down to her home, or am I too young? And I have also walked home with her after school.

You are not too young to be friends to a girl. Be friends, but don't be spooner, my boy.

The Daily Novelette. THE RING. "He looked at her steady. He looked at her long. And he hummed, as he looked. A fragment of song. So young and yet so toothless."

"Well," he said, and that was all he said, but the well was deep. There is your ring. She spoke coldly, though the night was warm. He laughed several cruel, sardonic laughs, so close together that instead of sardonic they were almost sardonic.

"I want two rings," he said doggedly. The man wanted two rings! "One ring," she told him evenly, "is all that is coming to you. I did not mean to be slangy."

"No!" he cried. "This is a two-party ring and my signal is two rings!" So the operator gave him two rings.

END LIVER TROUBLE WITHOUT CALOMEL

Untrustworthy Drug. Thought to Loosen the Teeth. Now Made Absolutely Unnecessary.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for Calomel—are the mildest, but surest, laxative known, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination, not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. Dr. Edwards has been calomel's uncompromising foe. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets, a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil. These pleasant, harmless little tablets do all the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes lays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel at all, but to let Olive Tablets take their place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Olive Tablets when you feel "lumpy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" the clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits.

At 10c and 25c a box. "Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

Every Day Talks For Every Day People...

I arose at 4:30 this morning to finish early my weekly washing, that I might rest a bit later in the day, as the "Wee Ones" and I had planned a walk to the Monterey Bridge after school this p. m. We wanted to watch the water tumble in its pell-mell rush over the dam and on down the river.

Did you ever take your "Wee Ones" down to that bridge for that purpose? If you haven't, just make it a mental note now of the fact that you will in the very near future. Its worth the time and effort spent in getting there, to see the sun shine on the water, to feel the breeze against your face, and to get the smell of the fresh, damp, "springy earth."

By the way, how often, (Sunday not included) do you and the "Wee Ones" take a walk together? Now, not a promenade or a stroll, just a nice old-fashioned trudge like you and your mother, or your dear old dad, used to take?

Remember those wags? You can't not forget them, eh? There's things in this world that gold cannot buy, isn't there? And your father has answered the final roll call.

Well, in honor of his memory why not promise yourself that you will try (and trying, have it come to pass), to have for your dear "Wee Ones" a home that shall be as good as the home he made for you, when you were one of his "Wee Ones?"

A home having first and always the right atmosphere—a place where every one of your's can go with all their sorrows and their joys, where they are sure of a welcome, sure of being understood, where they can let the burdens of the day slip from their shoulders.

Real Italian Spaghetti—First make the tomato sauce, as it takes much longer to cook than the spaghetti. Put some sauce in a small onion and cut in thin slices, then add one tablespoon of olive oil or one teaspoon of lard, let cook until the onion is a rich brown color. Then add the contents of a can of tomatoes that have passed through a colander, then add one teaspoon of sugar, one teaspoon of salt and a pinch of pepper. Let cook until quite thick.

This is enough for six. German Coffee Bread—Pour one cup scalded milk over one-third cup butter, one-third cup sugar, and one-half teaspoon salt. When lukewarm add one-fourth lukewarm water with one yeast cake dissolved in it, two eggs, beaten slightly, and enough flour to make a stiff batter. Cover with clean cloth and let rise in a warm place until it has more than doubled in size, beat thoroughly and divide into two equal parts, place in two shallow pie pans and cover with the following:

One cup stale bread crumbs, 2 1/2 tablespoons sugar, three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon, pinch of salt, two tablespoons butter and three tablespoons blanched almonds finely chopped. Let rise 15 minutes, then bake 30 minutes in moderate heat.

Prize Sponge Cake—Beat four eggs very light, add two cups granulated sugar and beat again thoroughly, then add three-fourths cup warm water, pinch of salt, two cups flour sifted with two teaspoons baking powder, and a teaspoon of vanilla extract. Bake in good-sized dripping pan in slow oven. Ice when cool, with any preferred icing. This is especially good for the kiddies.

Relieved eczema instantly. Philadelphia, Pa., March 28, 1913: "Resinol has surely been a friend in need to me. I had eczema on my face. It was in the form of a rash. I used many treatments, without any results. I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment and it gave me instant relief, and was very thankful I was, for my whole head felt like it was a fire. I told the doctor about Resinol and he highly recommended it and told me to continue its use. I am now completely cured of that dreadful disease after using only about four jars of Resinol Ointment and washing with Resinol Soap." (Signed) Miss Caroline B. Laughlin, 174 Pleasant St., Mt. Airy.

The soothing, healing medication in Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap penetrates the tiny pores of the skin, clears them of impurities, and stops itching instantly. Resinol heals eczema, rashes, ringworm, and other eruptions, and removes disfiguring pimples and blackheads quickly and easily, when other treatments prove worse than useless.

Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which proved so uniformly successful for skin troubles that it has been used by other doctors all over the country for eighteen years. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval.

Practically every druggist, large or small, sells Resinol Ointment (50c and $1) and Resinol Soap (25c), but you can test them at our expense if you prefer. Send to Dept. 17-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., for liberal samples and the two new Resinol booklets.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.

Spring Tonic—Go to the market and get some sarsaparilla roots or bark. Some farmers bring it in this month; later you will have to get at the drug store. It costs more and is not as fresh. The farmers sell it at five cents a bunch. Make a tea of this bark and drink a cupful each night. If your bowels need a regulator, just add a few senna leaves to the tea. If you wish you can take one tea strong enough to last for a week, then take only three or four tablespoonfuls each night.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Just think what a narrow escape Grace had!

THE PURCHASE PRICE; OR THE CAUSE OF COMPROMISE

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1913, by Emerson Hough

"I am fortunate to find you here in Washington, my dear sir," began the gentleman from Kentucky. "It is something of a surprise."

The wrinkles about the other's eyes deepened in an affable smile. "True," said he. "In the last twelve years I have three times sought to get back into Washington. Perhaps it would have been more seemly for me to remain in the decreed dignified retirement."

They joined in a laugh at this, as they both drew up chairs at the table side.

"You see," resumed the last speaker, "I am not judged intruding here in national affairs, but only choose Washington for tonight. I have been thinking of a pleasure journey into the west, down the Ohio river."

"What you say interests me," No doubt you propose going down the river as far as Missouri? The interest of the entire country is focused there today. Ah, you find the crux of all our compromise!"

"Yet your administration today, my dear sir, call it 'fidelity.' Believe me it is no more than a compromise with truth and justice! The entire north demands that slavery shall halt."

"The entire south refuses it!"

"Then let the south beware! Not another inch for slavery!"

"Hush!" said the other, raising a hand. "Not even you and I dare go into this. The old quarrel is lulled for a time. At last we have worked these measures through both the house and senate. My dear friend, it is not a question of principle, but of policy, today."

The other sat gravely for a time before he made reply. "Our people feel too sternly to be reconciled. We need some new party."

Again the other raised a warning hand. "Do not say that word! Others have principles as much as you and I. Let us not speak with recklessness of consequences. But, privately and without hot argument, my dear friend, the singular thing to me is that you, an old leader of the people, with a wide following in the north and south, should now be entertaining precisely the same principles—though not expressing them, with the same reckless fervor—which are advanced by the latest and most dangerous abolitionist of the time. You could perhaps guess her name."

CHAPTER XV. The Artful Gentleman.

THE gentlemen drew their chairs closer. "I presume you mean the lady reputed to have been connected with President Taylor's commission of inquiry into affairs in Hungary."

"Yes, the most beautiful woman in Washington today." So she is called by some. "The most dangerous," by others."

"Has Kentucky forgotten its gallantry so fully as that? Rumor has reported the young woman to me as a charming young widow of beauty, wealth and breeding."

"Yes, manners, and convictions, and courage—abolitionist tendencies and fighting proclivities. She is a firebrand—a revolutionist, fresh back from the old world and armed with weapons of whose use we old fogies are utterly ignorant. Having apparently nothing to lose whose loss she dreads, she is careless of all consequences. You, my dear sir, speak of your moral adherence to some new party. You consider yourself one of the lamented Free Soil party and hope a resurrection. This woman does not pause there—no. She comes here to Washington at precisely the time of our final compromise, when all is peaceful, even slumberous, and she preaches the crusade of fire and sword."

The other pondered. "I have never seen the lady," he remarked at length. "Is she acquainted among the abolitionists of the north?"

"No," she trains in no one's camp. Indeed, socially she has been neglected in the north, for reasons said to have been urged in diplomatic circles."

"Something of an intrigante, eh?"

"At least enough to excite the anger and suspicion of Austria, the interest of England, the concern of France—that's all!"

"Of what age is she?"

"I should say twenty-three, twenty-four—not over twenty-six, perhaps. It is difficult to say. I have met her but rarely."

"You have met at disadvantage, even so," smiled the other.

"You have never met this fair enthusiast? You are behind the times!" retorted the wily Kentuckian. "Perhaps you would like that honor? I think it could be arranged. Indeed," he added, after a moment spent in careful study of his companion's face, "I would even undertake to arrange it."

"My dear sir, with your well known charm of manner with men, and women as well, you could in that case win the lasting plaudits of your country if you but possessed the resolution!"

"In a cause so noble I would do what I might! But what is the cause? And is it proper for one of my place to engage in it?"

"You could, I say, be bailed by the administration in power not as the father of your country perhaps, but as its savior. Take this woman out of our camp and into your own. Pledge your own fowl together, you Free Soilers. Take her out of Washington, get her back to Europe, where she belongs, and, without jesting, my dear sir, you shall have the backing next year, two years hence—in 1853—any time you like—of the men who make this administration and of the men behind this compromise. I am serious. I speak to you in nowise ill advised. To tell you the truth, we are frightened. She has stolen all our peace of mind and stolen also some of our thunder—some of our castoff and unbattered thunder. She proposes to purchase all the slaves in the United States out of her own funds and ship them out of America."

"Great God!"

"Yes, we didn't dare it. She does. We didn't begin. She has begun. And since it has begun—who knows what army of the people—what new party—may fall in behind her? We want you to forestall all that. We don't want you to head that new party. We think you will do better to fall in with us, to accept the compliment of a European mission and to take this fair firebrand with you. We are afraid to have her in Washington."

The other listened with a flicker of the eyelid, which showed his interest, but feigned fogginess in his speech.

"But, tell me, what is it that you would have me do?"

"My dear sir, you must transport, manhandle, murder, wheedle, bowstring, drown and permanently lose Josephine, Countess St. Auban, herself late back from Missouri, formerly of God knows where."

"But I could not well carry off this fair lady by main strength. My own plans unfortunately require some attention. And I think that even were the trifling difficulty of the lady's consent overcome I could not easily assume the role of savior of my country before the time of the departure of the next ship for Europe, even granted my enemies, the Whigs, will give a mission to an ex-Democrat and Free Soiler like myself."

"Not that I should not experience the most pleasurable emotions both in saving the country, my dear sir, and of saving it in the company of so charming a person as this young lady is reported to be."

They looked at each other and broke into laughter. Yet minds so keen as theirs long before them had read between lines on the printed page under the outward mask of human countenances.

"Stranger things have happened!" said the gentleman from Kentucky.

"My soul and body! My dear sir, you do not speak seriously!" His surprise was feigned, and the other knew it.

"I was never so serious in my life. At this time, when our diplomacy abroad is none too fortunate and when our diplomacy at home is far more delicate and dangerous, you yourself, known the country over as a man of tact and delicacy, are the one man in the world to handle this very mission. It is the Old Fox of the North, after all, Free Soiler or not, who alone can smooth down matters for us. Our country has supreme confidence in you. This administration has such confidence still."

"Do you speak with authority other than your own?"

"It is not yet time for me to answer that.

"Yet you dare approach one who is in the opposing camp."

"But one whose camp we either hope to join or whom we hope later to have in our own."

"My faith, I believe you are serious in this! Have you really formulated any plans?" He was safe in the trap, and the other knew it.

"Sir, I will not discredit you by choosing methods. As to the results desired, I say no more."

"Yet we sit here and discuss this matter as though we contemplated a simple, proper and dignified act!"

"Murder is perhaps not legal, even for the sake of one's country. But suppose we halt this side of murder. Suppose that by means known only to yourself, and not even to myself, you gained this young woman's free consent to accompany you, say, to Europe—that would be legal, dignified, proper—and oh, so useful!"

"And quite impossible."

"Altogether impossible. Oh, utterly!"

They spoke with gravity. What the gentleman from New York really thought lay in his unvoiced question: "Could it by any possibility be true that the Fillmore administration would give me support for the next nomination if I agree to swing the Free Soil summer. But I might be younger and fare better at that sort of thing."

"Altogether to the contrary, my friend! Do not mistake this lady. Youth would be an absolute bar to success. Age, dignity, a public reputation such as yours—these are the only things which by any possibility could gain success; and, frankly, even these may fail. Take my advice. Put her in a sack, drop her overboard in mid-ocean. In return, all I ask of you is not to throw overboard the sack anywhere close to this country's shore!"

Meanwhile, the Countess St. Auban, innocent of these plans which had gone forward regarding her, completed her attendance at the entertainment which the evening was offering the elite of Washington, and in due time arrived at the entrance of her hotel.

Vital, self confident, a trifle foreign, certainly distinguished, at first there might have seemed a trace of defiance in the carriage, even in the glance of Josephine St. Auban. But a second look into the wide dark eyes would have found there rather a trace of pathos, bordering upon melancholy. Such was the woman of the hour in Washington, lately frowned on by the ladies as too beautiful, talked about by the gentlemen as too cold, discussed by some, adored by others, understood by none, dreaded by some high in power, plotted against by others yet more high in place.

She cast a hurried glance now at the clock which, tall and solemn, stood near by in the hall. It was upon the stroke of midnight only. Turning half questioningly to her maid, she heard a footfall. The manager of the hotel himself came to greet her, carrying a card in his hand, and with a bow, asking her attention.

"It is impossible," she said. "You know my wishes very well."

"But, my dear countess, have you noted this name?" began the manager. "Of course I know it. All the more reason there should be mistake."

A step sounded near by, and the curtains swung back, disclosing the entrance to one of the adjoining parlors of the hotel. The figure of a well built and hale gentleman past middle age, of dignified carriage and pleasant features, was revealed. Half hesitating, he advanced.

SHE PAYS THE PENALTY

There is hardly an American woman who fails to pay the penalty of her sex at some time or other. Pain, lays its merciless hand upon her—it may be that dreadful backache, those bearing down pains, side-aches, nervousness, irregularities or the tortures of a displacement—it is the penalty of sex. To all such women in this condition Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound comes as a boon and blessing. A simple remedy, made from roots and herbs which has brought glorious health to more suffering women than any other remedy. Advertisement.

FOR SALE—Second Hand Furniture.

The For Sale ads are the market place for things that have been used. Oft times a second hand article will serve as well as a new one. Watch this classification. Just now is the season when many things are being discarded and new ones purchased. Attics are being filled with things that have years of usefulness left. Thousands of dollars worth of household goods stowed away to rot and mold.

Why Not Turn These Things Into Cash?

Every day The Gazette Classified is read eagerly by people watching for the opportunity to buy just such things as you are throwing away.

Why not list your items and tell them on this page, what you have for sale.
